

At your local GP practices:

Greater access to GP appointments in the evening or weekends

Joined up care - GPs working together and with teams of other professionals such as community nurses, mental health counsellors, social carers and pharmacists

Support to manage and plan your own care – avoiding the need to go to hospital, a care home or see your GP

Health and well-being advice to keep you fit and well

Plan how and where we deliver care by working with our partners, local residents, community groups and charities

Tailor health and social care services by using data to analyse the health needs of Buckinghamshire

Provide consistent specialist community services to the population of Buckinghamshire as a whole, such as end-of-life, stroke, cancer and urgent care

Our hospitals will work together to provide expert acute care if and when you need it

In your local area:

Keep you independent for longer - giving you access to a local team of professionals able to support your physical, mental and social care needs

Deliver care closer to your home that is traditionally provided in hospital

An increased range of services in your local community such as x-rays, blood tests and outpatient clinics

Alternative short-term support to avoid the need to stay in hospital or residential care

Local people, patients and communities will be at the centre of our work and our decision-making. We'll work with you to plan your care, prevent ill health and help you live happy and healthier lives.
